Recommendation Letter

As the CEO of a large group of companies, I absolutely agree that every business, even offline ones, should not miss a chance to take advantage of digital opportunities. However, choosing the right contractors for outsourcing some tasks is quite important.

We had an excellent experience in cooperation with the Addlium agency. First, they have years of promoting companies in our field, thus know how to use marketing tools most effectively particularly for us. So we decided to order a part of marketing activities for several of our companies, namely the update of a website and social media maintenance.

They have done an excellent job, been always in touch and offered competitive rates for their services. The team completely overhauled our website with outstanding design, and now we can use it for further promotion. We also were provided with full content support on LinkedIn and Facebook, including branded media.

They are easy to work with due to comprehensible processes and communication. Thanks to Dmytro Suslov and his team. With great pleasure I recommend Addlium as a B2B marketing service provider.
